About Workwise

"Creating work connections to support people in finding and living their dreams."

Workwise is a national employment agency working in seven regions across New Zealand. It's an employment agency with a difference. Every day Workwise supports people with experience of mental illness or traumatic brain injury to choose, get and keep a job that is right for them.

Our Services

We're based in central New Plymouth, however we also provide a mobile service covering the wider Taranaki area including Hawera, Stratford and Waitara. Just give us a call to arrange a convenient time and place to meet with one of our team.

Choose...

It's not about any job; it's about the right job for you. Workwise encourages people to think about job choices based on the things they really enjoy.

Get...

When it comes to looking for a dream job, Workwise will offer a level of support based on what the individual wants. That may be help with searching for a job, support to develop a CV or an employment consultant to attend interviews with.

Keep...

Providing people with the support they need to keep a dream job is a big part of what Workwise does. This could be regular catch ups, liaising with employers or support networks - anything to ensure people feel happy in your new job.

Finding the right position for the right person is what it's all about. In society, work is a valuable part of peoples' identities. Workwise believes that finding and shaping this identity is fundamental to the wellbeing of any person.
